OPEN UP NEW AVENUES FOR OMNI-CHANNEL SALES.

What is SalesPad EDI?

Powered by SPS Commerce, our EDI service takes your omni-channel sales game to the next level. It's a high-powered integration that allows for an easy exchange of information between companies, and it's what will keep you competitive with big-box retailers. EDI brings you into the trading network that connects over 1500 companies worldwide.

EDI should be used if:

- SalesPad is designed to optimize every stage of your order-to-cash cycle.
- You're looking to reduce order entry errors
- You're a smaller business that works with large retailers
- Drop-shipping is a common occurrence within your operations
- You're looking to stay up-to-date and competitive in your field

What does EDI look like in action?

EDI allows you to easily exchange data between your company and the outside world. This process comes in handy when managing a multi-channel sales system, where you're pulling in orders upon orders from several different outlets. You can also easily automate tasks when working with third parties or other integrations, which seriously cuts down on opportunities for human error. EDI also opens doors for smaller businesses to work with larger customers, without breaking the bank or getting overly complicated.

With EDI, you can:

- Avoid translation errors by utilizing retail-standard XML
- Create your own EDI document types
- Design a schedule for receiving
- Integrate with your workflow in order to speed up processes
- Seamlessly share data without worry about time zones, wait times, or out-of-date inventory data

How can I make EDI work for me?

SalesPad EDI adapts to your business. We've got some great out-of-the-box features that are ready to go when you are, but that's only the beginning of what SalesPad EDI can do for your company. From custom EDI document types to unique business mappings to easily adaptable workflows, SalesPad EDI works with you to do better business.
